

Multi-Course Workshop

October 12-14, 2012

Camp Cazadero
Sonoma County

Camp Cazadero is located northwest of Santa Rosa in the rolling hills north of the Russian River in Sonoma County. The site is on 1,000 acres of open meadow and has redwoods, madrones, firs and oak trees. It is a beautiful setting to learn the basic outdoor skills and receive hands-on training and experience in several outdoor activities. It is unparalleled in providing peace and beauty in addition to outstanding meals and workshop facilities.

Skills include archery, fly fishing, fly tying, bait fishing, map and compass, outdoor/Dutch oven cooking, shotgun shooting, knot tying, backpacking, kayaking, personal self-defense, and more. Workshop instructors are certified in their field and include professional biologists, hunters, anglers, and other outdoor enthusiasts; all who specialize in providing exceptional training for women.

The workshop registration fee covers all instruction, equipment, and supplies (except a fishing license required for open water fishing), three days and two nights lodging, seven fabulous sit-down meals, two evening programs and entertainment, raffles, merchandise and more. The fun, the renewed confidence, the camaraderie and the memories are all yours at no extra charge. Several photographers will be in attendance to provide lasting memories of a wonderful event.

Fee: $325

100 participants

In California, over 5,000 women have participated in a BOW event.

Don't wait another minute to step outside and join us.

www.bowca.org • (530) 347-0227

